Data for Decisions

This practice is proud to be involved in a University of Melbourne project that electronically collects anonymous (de-identified) information from the health records of patients in an ethical and secure way.

The de-identified data is stored in a database managed by the University of Melbourne (Patron). Please be assured by this practice and the University of Melbourne that all information collected, used and stored cannot identify individual patients as required under Federal Privacy Law.

Together with data contributed from other practices, the information will only be used for research, teaching and policy purposes that will help improve the way medical care is delivered and inform the education of future health professionals. The information will not be used for any marketing or selling of any products to you or your doctor.

If you do not want your data to be used by the Data for Decisions initiative, then please tell your doctor or the receptionist.

If you would like more information, please ask at reception for an Information for Patients handout. You can also visit our website or ask your doctor.
