Important changes to Graduate Research IP Management!

Following University-wide consultation, the University of Melbourne has recently updated its Intellectual Property (IP) Policy (MPF1320) with a focus on:

- Providing increased clarity on IP for graduate research,
- Ensuring that the policy is fit for purpose in light of increased entrepreneurial and start-up activity across the University, and
- Setting clear expectations regarding Indigenous Cultural and Intellectual Property.

Please click HERE for information and resources, including Frequently Asked Questions and Supervisor Guidelines. A dedicated temporary mailbox (ipassign-students@unimelb.edu.au) has been established for Faculty staff including supervisors, to direct questions that are not addressed in the materials.

You are encouraged to attend one of the upcoming information sessions to learn more about these changes. Please register via the links below:

University of Melbourne's Health Economics Short Courses in October

The University of Melbourne is hosting three upcoming Health Economics short courses, which have been designed to assist policymakers, clinicians, researchers, managers and others working in the health sector with an understanding of health economic issues, and how this can aid decision making.

- Introduction to cost-effectiveness analysis in health (10th October, In-person)
An introductory course that provides participants with a better understanding of health priority setting and the application of cost-effectiveness analysis. This introductory course has no assumed knowledge. It represents a good foundation for other courses offered in the series.
$550 (Early Bird), $660 (Non-Early Bird) for 10th October, In-person
Registrations are open and are accessible through the link: Cost Effectiveness Analysis in Health | Short Course \(unimelb.edu.au\)
- Practical Methods for Health Economic Evaluation (11th-13th October, In-person)
A three-day intensive computer-based course in methods for health economic evaluation. The course covers study design principles, techniques for analysing costs and outcomes and an introduction to decision models.
$2,200 (Early Bird), $2,640 (Non-Early Bird) for 11th –13th October, In-person
Registrations are open and are accessible through the link: <https://study.unimelb.edu.au/find/short-courses/practical-methods-for-health-economic-evaluation/>
- Designing Economic Evaluation Alongside Clinical Studies (19th October online)
A one-day course providing an overview of economic evaluation alongside randomized controlled trials and other studies, with a particular focus on the design and practical aspects.
$450 – Early Bird, $560 – Non-Early Bird for 19th October, online
Only $250 – for those taking the Introduction to cost-effectiveness short course.
Registrations are open and are accessible through the link <https://study.unimelb.edu.au/find/short-courses/designing-economic-evaluation-alongside-clinical-studies/>
