

Department of Medical Education
Melbourne Medical School

The Department of Medical Education holds weekly research roundtables presented by both our own staff and visitors to the Department.

Research roundtables

February 2019

7 February

Exemplary teaching practices (and influencing factors) across the disciplines in fostering self-regulated learning: Work in progress

Jo Russell (PhD candidate, DME, University of Melbourne)

14 February

Learning through talk: Exploring synergies between simulation and workplace learning

Dr Walter Eppich (Director, Department of Medical Education/Associate Professor of Paediatrics, Feinberg School of Medicine, Chicago)

21 February

The development of a learner-centred framework for feedback literacy

Professor Elizabeth Molloy (DME, University of Melbourne)

28 February

Two initiatives for promoting the scholarship of teaching in MDHS:

- Good WIL Hunting: Development of a framework to optimise work integrated learning across the health professions
- Learning and teaching clinical communication in health professional education for the 21st century: A faculty wide approach for curriculum renewal and improved graduate outcomes

Dr Charlotte Denniston and Associate Professor Robyn Woodward-Kron (DME, University of Melbourne)

Time

1-2pm Thursdays

Location

DME Library
Room N714, Level 7
Medical Building
Parkville Campus

Convenor: Associate Professor Robyn Woodward-Kron robynwk@unimelb.edu.au

Coordinator: Michelle Grainger michelle.grainger@unimelb.edu.au